Call for Papers:

5th Halle Colloquy on Local Public Economics:

“Cooperation between Jurisdictions: Assessing the Evidence for Cost Savings and Economic Development”

The 5th Halle Colloquy on Local Public Economics is organised by the IWH in cooperation with the University of Kassel (chair of public economics) and will take place from

November 21st to 22nd, 2013

at

Halle Institute for Economic Research (IWH), Halle (Saale), Germany.

Purpose

The aim of this workshop is to bring together original economic and interdisciplinary research papers that cast some light on new developments in theoretical and empirical research on inter-jurisdictional cooperation. The workshop mainly focuses on research topics referring to the local and regional government level, although papers dealing with national or international issues are also welcome. The workshop should give young researchers an opportunity of presenting and discussing their research results. Thus, abstracts from young researchers are highly welcome.

Keynote Speakers:

Richard Feiock

Florida State University

“The Institutional Collective Action Framework”

Ben Lockwood

University of Warwick

“Vertical Performance Spillovers: Theory and Evidence”

Costs

No registration fee will be charged. Participants are expected to pay their own travel and accommodation expenses. A number of hotel rooms at preferential rates will be available for the participants.
